Not illustrated. 1895 Excerpt: . . . word the people to come again and bring a friend. From fifteen to twenty Brotherhood men with good voices; were in daily attendance and formed an excellent choir. This, made the musii-al part of our services a great feature. The choir was under the le idership of Brotherhood musicians, who pledged themselves to attend to this work a week at a time through the. season. It will be noted that our methods were entirely practical and. businesslike. But the spirit which animated them was the mainspring of our success. We all realized that a blessed opportu nity was presented to us, and we all seemed to avail ourselves of it. It is difficult to estimate or name the practical results . of these services. The seed was sown. That we know. We had the blessed privilege of bringing men to hear the Word of God. That we know. That G-od gave, and is giving the increase, we believe. The co3t of conducting the services in this liberal way was considerable, but we went ahead and did all that we thought should be done to make them known everywhere. We put alms boxes at the doors of the church with the sign. Contributions toward the expenses of these services above them. Whan the services were ended we paid all bills and had 50 surplus in the treasury! As we look forward to our Lenten work for 1896, we feel that we may take courage from the past....
